Next month, Rach and her wife Mel are lacing up their KT26's and walking 50kms to raise awareness of neuroendocrine cancer - Australia's 7th most diagnosed cancer.

...and they're asking for your support by making a donation to their fundraising page here.

As someone who lives with neuroendocrine cancer, Rach is hoping that we can all get onboard and support her and Mel's 50km walk.

"I am taking part in March4Nets, as someone who has NeuroEndocrine Cancer in the pancreas, to support education and show that some patients with neuroendocrine tumours (NETs) can keep working and manage day-to-day commitments while receiving treatment, although this is not the case for everyone and not all of the time.

"Ask questions, of me, of family, of health professionals, don't be shy! I am fortunate to have support from my wife Mel, my family and friends, and NeuroEndocrine Cancer Australia services, including NET Nurses, counselling, and dietitian support.

"Education and fundraising help build awareness and strengthen support for people living with NETs. Any donations are greatly appreciated," Rach said.

Head to Rach's fundraising page to learn more and make a donation - any amount helps!
