

NeuroEndocrine
Cancer Australia

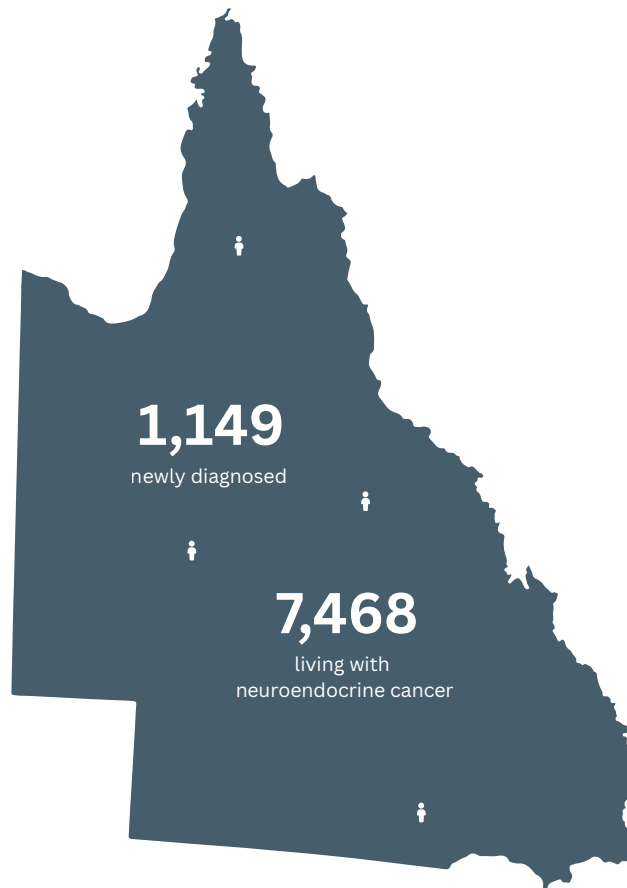

NeuroEndocrine Cancer Australia

QLD Overview

Queensland

In QLD alone our NET patients make up almost 18% of all calls to the specialist NET Nurse line, making 918 contacts in the last year alone

”

"I found the NET Nurse Service incredibly helpful. The support was prompt, reassuring, and very informative during a time when everything felt overwhelming. I appreciated the clarity of the explanations, the compassionate approach, and the resources provided, especially the list of specialists and the suggested questions to ask my doctors. The service has been professional, warm, and genuinely supportive. Thank you for the guidance and care."

— NET patient

Support

Education

Research

Awareness

Advocacy

Cassie, Queensland (QLD)

Cassie was diagnosed with neuroendocrine cancer in her early 30s and has undergone multiple surgeries while raising young children. She has become a powerful voice for NET awareness, sharing how delayed diagnosis affects young families.

Cassie's Story.

”

I'm a 36-year-old mum of three little humans – things like this just don't happen to people like me. Until all of a sudden it does, and everything changes.

—Cassie Miller (Sunshine Coast)

Support

Education

Research

Awareness

Advocacy